

IN THE ABSTRACT:

Please add an abstract as follows:

Apparatus for shaping a light beam in a lighting device comprising an occluding element which is rotatable about an axis parallel to the light beam, the axis of rotation of the occluding element being independently movable along a path so as to provide a large number of possible lighting effects.